McStocker Grand Jury Absolved

Judge Cooper Holds Lane Indictment Not Due To Prejudice

The Territorial grand jury which found an indictment against Edward Lane for an attack upon a girl was not prejudiced, and the presence of Lorrin Andrews before the inquisitors was not an impropriety that would affect the indictment against Lane, according to a decision that was made in the Lane case by Judge Cooper this morning.

Attorney Douthitt, in Lane's behalf, attacked the indictment on the ground that the conduct of the grand jury previous to the returning of the true bill was characterized by exhibitions of prejudice and personal feeling in the jury room. In support of this charge all of the members of the McStocker grand jury were subpoenaed and placed upon the stand. They gave their version of the incidents surrounding the indictment of Lane and the calling of Andrews into the grand jury room as a result of the attorney's reported statement that he could have convicted Lane upon a higher charge than was brought against the defendant by the City and County Attorney's office.

In the course of his decision this morning, Judge Cooper held that there was no formal charge pending against Lane at the time Andrews was before the inquisitors, and also that the testimony adduced in Lane's behalf did not show misconduct upon the part of any member of the McStocker grand jury or the body as a whole.

Upon the conclusion of Judge Cooper's statement this morning, Attorney Douthitt filed a demurrer to the indictment, which will be argued tomorrow afternoon.

The Lane case, prosecution, which caused the break between Cathcart and Attorney-General Lindsay, is now in the hands of Lorrin Andrews, Lindsay having no connection with the case.

SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS ARE AGAINST LOCATING GIRLS' INDUSTRIAL AT MOILILI

At the session of the Commissioners of Public Instruction this morning, strong opposition was manifested to the location of the new Girls' Industrial School upon thirty-five acres of land at Moilili. Commissioner Aiken of Maui was particularly opposed to the placing of the industrial school in a district which he believed would be the center of a well-populated residential section within the course of comparatively few years.

Aiken maintained that an industrial school, practically a reformatory, was not a desirable addition to a residential district of Honolulu, and the other members of the commission were of the opinion that a site outside of the city would provide a more wholesome and altogether more desirable place for the school than would the Moilili acreage.

Superintendent Pope and Judge Stanley were of the opinion that a location for the school somewhere near Waianae would be desirable. As a result of the discussion this morning, the commissioners will visit the proposed Moilili site this afternoon.

The problem of the course of study received extended consideration at the meeting this morning. Commissioner Aiken of Maui stated that he believed that the course of study should be divided into two parts, one adjusted to the practical needs of the pupils who were certain of not going farther than the fifth grade. FINED $2 FOR EXPECTORATING

Anti-Spitting Ordinance Is Enforced By Police Officers.

Because they heedlessly spat on the sidewalk, D. Crewes, a Porto Rican, and Joe Dai De Kar, a Korean, were each fined by Judge Lymer in his court this morning to pay a fine of two dollars and costs. When they were arrested by the police officers, they claimed that they did not know anything about the anti-spitting ordinance, and asked to be let go. The officer refused to free them.

In the court this morning they admitted the offense, declaring ignorance of the law and asked the court to be lenient with them, which Judge Lymer did, by taxing them two dollars apiece for violating the ordinance. The case against Tahara, a Japanese, charged with leaving his horse untied in a public place, was postponed until January 10.

OPPOSITION TO HOLSTEIN MAY DEVELOP

Caucus of Republican Representatives Will Be Held Tonight.

KELIHOI GAINING STRENGTH, IS REPORT

Maui Legislator Said to Have Used National Guard Affiliations as Way to Support.

Chairman A. D. Cooper of the executive committee of the Republican Territorial Central Committee will call to order the caucus of Republican members of the next house at 7:30 o'clock tonight, and there is a possibility that the local delegation will find itself split over the election of a speaker for the House. Within the last few days there have been indications of growing strength on the part of Sam Kelihoi, the Maui representative, who opposes H. L. Holstein, of Hawaii.

Most of the political "dope" has been to the effect that Holstein would get the Oahu delegation solid, but a report was current this morning that two or three out of the twelve Oahu representatives are inclined to favor Kelihoi. In fact, some of the members are already figuring on a compromise candidate, and in this connection the name of Charles Rice, of Kauai, is prominently mentioned.

Kelihoi is said to have the Maui delegation pledged as a unit for his cause, and to have lined up scattering votes on other islands. He is a member of the National Guard on Maui and is given credit for having used this as a lever to get legislators-elect under pledge to himself. However, Holstein is undoubtedly the choice of the big majority of the twelve Oahuans and may be given the entire strength tonight.

Several Matters Brewing.
Chairman Cooper will call the meeting to order, after which the caucus will probably organize itself. A number of important matters are to come up, among which a preliminary discussion of the direct primary law and a talk over the budget are most prominent.

Maui County has laid out an ambitious program for appropriations, and the desire of Maui to get some much-needed work done by territorial aid may be used against Kelihoi's chances by the Oahu legislators, as according to program Oahu is to have the chairmanship of the Finance Committee in the next Legislature.

The caucus tonight is for Representatives only. A caucus of Senators is to be called later.

U. S. INQUISITORS IN SESSION

The United States Grand Jury resumed its session this morning with Faxon Bishop as foreman. The Federal inquisitors made a beginning in the investigation of the charge made against E. B. Bridgewater of Kauai. During the hearing of the case this morning Bridgewater was called before the Grand Jury to give his version of the circumstances connected with the allegation made by the Chinese.

A number of witnesses have been subpoenaed in connection with the opium smuggling cases now pending, but it is understood that none of the opium cases were reached by the Grand Jurors this morning.

Big Raise In Money-Order Rates

New Order Hits Million Dollars of Japanese Business Here.

Uncle Sam's coffers will get probably $10,000 more per year from Hawaii by virtue of a new postoffice regulation which goes into effect on February 1, making a substantial increase on rates for post-office money orders to many foreign countries. A cablegram announcing the new schedule in rates was received last Saturday afternoon by Postmaster Pratt, who will transmit it to the other 36 offices in the Territory doing an international business.

The Japanese of Hawaii will be particularly hard-hit by the new regulations. Nearly half of the money-order business out of this Territory is to Japan, and the rate has been increased a hundred per cent, in other words from 50 cents to a dollar fee per hundred dollars of order.

No exact figures as to the revenue derived from the foreign money order business in the Territory can be secured. The revenue from the Honolulu office business in this respect for the last fiscal year was $1,418.75, and the total amount of money orders sent was $211,117.07. The total money order business for the Territory is $2,581,233.40, and figuring from the revenue of the local office, the entire revenue is roughly $15,000.

However, the new rates do not affect the Japanese of Hawaii.

Subsidy Bill Much Revised

Senator Gallinger Introduces Measures Restricting Government Aid

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 9.—No transpacific line will be given a government subsidy if the plans outlined today in a new mail subsidy bill are carried. These plans are contained in a revised ocean mail subsidy bill introduced by Senator Jacob H. Gallinger of New Hampshire, in the Senate.

Under the bill introduced by Gallinger, who is one of the prominent members of the committee on commerce, the subsidy will not apply to any transpacific line, and only to bills are carried. These plans are contained in a revised ocean mail subsidy bill introduced by Senator Jacob H. Gallinger of New Hampshire, in the Senate.

TRANS-OCEANIC WIRELESS TO BE TESTED BY EXPERT SENT TO HAWAII BY COAST COMPANY

Within a few weeks a series of the most important wireless tests ever undertaken on the island will be conducted here, with a view to establishing permanent long-distance connections with the Orient and the Occident—with the United States, on one side, and Japan, on the other.

Beach Thompson, head of the big long-distance wireless company organized by San Francisco millionaires, has left Honolulu for the Coast after looking over the situation here. Mr. Thompson visited Hawaii to see the Kahuku point wireless station, with a view to making it the connecting link between the Orient and the Occident, as well as to establishing a wireless service from the Coast to Hawaii.

In about six weeks an expert of the long-distance company will arrive here to make a series of tests. A number of messages will be sent to and from Coast stations, and if the tests are successful, it is expected that the company, which operates under the Poulson patents, will make arrangements with the local wireless for the use of the Kahuku point station.

John A. Balch, superintendent of the wireless department of the Mutual Telephone Company, said this morning that definite arrangements will not be made pending the tests to be tried.

"The expert will arrive in about six weeks," says Mr. Balch. "Mr. Thompson has gone back to the mainland, but the company will test its plans for a trans-oceanic service here."
